Directory of Domestic and Gender Violence Programs Serving

Asians, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders & Middle Easterners and North Africans

Updated September 2026

About the Directory

This Directory of Domestic and Gender Violence Programs Serving Asians, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders (AANHPI) and Middle Easterners and North Africans (MENA) is compiled by the Asian Pacific Institute on Gender-Based Violence, a resource center advocating in solidarity with AANHPI and MENA communities. This Directory reports which communities agencies have the capacity to provide culturally-response services to; however, all agencies listed serve victims from all communities.

We make our best attempt to reach agencies to self-report their service information and language capacity; when this was not possible, we update agencies' information based on our best knowledge. That said, service and language capacity can change frequently; therefore users should reach out to agencies directly for the most updated information.

This directory is also available online, with search and filter options at: api-gbv.org/directory

For questions, corrections and/or to request additional information, or to have an agency added to the Directory please contact the Asian Pacific Institute on Gender-Based Violence by email at info@api-gbv.org.

Provides support to men and transmasculine folks who have either been harmed or caused harm. We take a transformative justice approach in our work and focus on repairing the connections that were severed by harm, examining the systems that shaped those involved and encouraging men and tansmasculine people to take a more proactive approach to their own healing and learning. As a survivor-owned collective, we also recognize that men and transmasculine folk are often survivors and because of the influence of patriarchy and toxic masculinity, struggle to process the ways we have been impacted by this trauma.
